

NC STATE UNIVERSITY RISK GOVERNANCE RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM

RALEIGH, NC | MAY 13-14, 2025

CALL FOR PAPERS

The ERM Initiative in the Poole College of Management at North Carolina State University is pleased to announce the call for papers for its Risk Governance Research Symposium to be held on May 13-14, 2025 in Raleigh, NC. The Symposium will assemble leading scholars for discussion and dialogue surrounding emerging research on risk governance topics.

AREAS OF FOCUS

The Symposium welcomes working papers focused on important risk governance issues to help advance enterprise-wide risk management practices and their integration with strategic planning and governance. Papers may come from a variety of disciplines and perspectives, and may be theoretical, archival or experimental in nature addressing different risk governance topics such as:

- Governance of specific types of risks (e.g., climate, cyber, etc.)
- Effects of regulatory and public policy actions (e.g., taxation)
- Challenges measuring the values of risk and reward
- Integration of risk management and strategy
- Role of culture and human behavior in effective risk governance
- Role of key governance players (boards, auditors, management)
- Barriers to enhancing risk governance

SYMPOSIUM FORMAT

The Symposium will consist of four research sessions centered around different risk governance themes. Each research session will begin with a risk governance practitioner who will expand on the research topic by providing real-world perspectives about challenges and opportunities organizations face in their risk governance efforts. Following that, each research session will feature 2-3 research working papers on that risk governance theme presented by one of the papers co-authors. Audience discussion will be a core part of each session. The first day will conclude with a networking reception for participants and speakers to continue discussion and dialogue.

You can read more about this Call for Papers at this link, where you can also view the agenda from our 2023 Symposium to see examples of papers presented then.

PAPER SUBMISSION DEADLINE

Please send a PDF version of your working paper by January 15, 2025 to RiskGovSymposium@ncsu.edu. Paper selections will be made by mid-February 2025.
